ABSTRACT

This updated version of a directory first published in 1980 lists 60 agencies from 15 European countries which are able and willing to provide information about the availability of educational audiovisual material. It indicates the type of material about which they can provide information by subject area, media, audience, and language. Agency names and titles of catalogs are presented in the native language of the country with other information in either English or French. The introduction and notes on catalog use are in both English and French. The materials cover the range of student audiences from preschool to adult and include films, videorecordings, photographs, slides, filmstrips, overhead projector transparencies, and sound recordings. The curriculum subjects covered are indicated by code numbers corresponding to the main divisions of the Universal Decimal Classification, and an outline of these divisions is provided. (Author/LMM)

INTRODUCTION AND NOTES ON USE OF THE DIRECTORY

Background and purpose

The first edition of the Directory was published in 1980. The Council of Europe received so many requests that a reprint was necessary to meet demand.

In preparing the second edition, the Documentation Centre for Education in Europe invited each agency cited in the 1980 edition to update its entry, and the heads of delegation to the Council for Cultural Co-operation (CDCC) of the countries concerned were given the opportunity to propose additional agencies. In the case of countries for which there was no entry in the 1980 edition, the CDCC delegations were invited to nominate agencies for inclusion in the present edition. Whereas the 1980 edition gave information on 45 agencies from 16 countries, the present edition gives information on 60 agencies from 15 countries.

The Directory is intended to make easier the task of discovering an item of audiovisual material suitable for a specific educational application that may have been produced somewhere in Europe.

This task is made difficult by the absence at present of a European catalogue of audiovisual material or even of comprehensive national catalogues. One may hope that the problem will be eased as countries build up national data bases and make them available through computer networks. In the meantime, the Council of Europe has compiled this directory of agencies which are able and willing to deal with enquiries from outside their national boundaries.

The cost in money and professional effort of designing and producing audiovisual materials of good quality can be so high that everything that is reasonably possible should be done to encourage the sharing of the materials themselves and of the experience embodied in their preparation.

The materials

The media include film, videorecording, photograph, slide, filmstrip, overhead projector transparency, sound recording and others. The materials cover the range of student audiences from pre-school to adult.

Items about which information can be provided will have a known educational application, although they need not have been conceived for that purpose. They will be available outside the country of production, whether for sale, on hire, on loan or free of charge.

While the language used in an item may cause difficulty, it should be remembered that a teacher can suppress the sound track of a film or videorecording and replace it by his own "live" commentary.

The information agencies

The agencies listed are:

(i) those which are able and willing to answer, from their own records, requests for information about audiovisual materials suitable for specific educational purposes in one or more subjects of the curriculum;

(ii) those which do not necessarily have direct access to comprehensive information of this kind, but which are able and willing to act as referral points to agencies in the first class.

Each agency can therefore be regarded as providing a bona fide information service to a part of the education system of the country in which it is located.

Using the Directory

For each country, the details which each agency has provided about its activities are displayed in a standard format. The curriculum subjects covered are indicated by code numbers corresponding to the main divisions of the Universal Decimal Classification (see below).

Making an enquiry

Where the relevant agency is shown as publishing a catalogue, the first step may be to obtain a copy.

Alternatively, a specific enquiry may be addressed to the agency, either directly or, preferably, through an agency in the enquirer's own country. As far as possible, the terminology used in the Directory should be adhered to, especially as regards media, curriculum subjects and student audience. This is desirable in order to minimise language and cultural problems; for this reason the terms used for media and student audience have been taken wherever possible from EUDISED Multilingual Thesaurus 1982 (Strasbourg: Council of Europe, 1982, ISBN 92-871-0031-4). Reference to the EUDISED thesaurus may be found helpful in formulating an enquiry where problems of communication are anticipated.

Acknowledgements

The present edition draws heavily on the work carried out by L.A. Gilbert in preparing the 1980 edition.

The collation and presentation of the information were carried out by Mrs Susan Vaillant.

INTRODUCTION ET NOTES SUR L'UTILISATION DU REPERTOIRE

Origine et raison d'être

La première édition du répertoire a été publiée en 1980. Le Conseil de l'Europe a reçu tant de demandes qu'une réimpression a été nécessaire.

En vue de la préparation de la deuxième édition, le Centre de Documentation pour l'Education en Europe a invité chaque organisme cité dans l'édition de 1980 à mettre à jour l'entrée le concernant, et la possibilité a été offerte aux chefs de délégation auprès du Conseil de Coopération Culturelle (CDCC) des pays concernés de proposer des organismes supplémentaires. Dans le cas des pays pour lesquels il n'y avait pas d'entrée dans l'édition de 1980, les délégations auprès du CDCC ont été priées de bien vouloir proposer des organismes à inclure dans la présente édition. Tandis que l'édition de 1980 donnait des informations sur 45 organismes dans 16 pays, la présente édition donne des informations sur 60 organismes dans 15 pays.

Ce répertoire a pour objet de faciliter la découverte d'un document audiovisuel, se prêtant à une application pédagogique particulière, qui a pu être produit quelque part en Europe.

Les recherches sont rendues difficiles à l'heure actuelle par l'absence d'un catalogue européen de la documentation audiovisuelle, ou même de catalogues nationaux suffisamment étoffés. On peut espérer que le problème perdra de son acuité à mesure que les pays constitueront des bases de données nationales et les rendront accessibles à travers les réseaux informatiques. En attendant, le Conseil de l'Europe a établi ce répertoire d'organismes qui sont aptes et disposés à donner suite à des demandes de renseignements en provenance d'autres pays.

La conception et la production de documents audiovisuels de qualité sont bien souvent si onéreuses, elles exigent des spécialistes concernés une telle somme d'efforts, qu'il faut encourager autant que faire se peut la mise en commun de ces documents eux-mêmes et de l'expérience acquise à l'occasion de leur élaboration.

Les documents

Les supports comprennent: film, enregistrement sur magnétoscope, photographie, diapositive, film fixe, transparent pour rétro-projecteur, enregistrement sonore, etc. La documentation embrasse tous les niveaux d'enseignement, depuis le pré-scolaire jusqu'à l'éducation des adultes.

Les documents sur lesquels des informations pourront être fournies auront une application pédagogique connue, sans avoir été forcément conçus pour cet usage. Il sera possible de se les procurer hors du pays de production, que ce soit en achat, en location, en prêt ou à titre gracieux.

La langue utilisée dans un document risque d'être parfois source de difficultés, mais il ne faut pas oublier que l'enseignant a la possibilité de supprimer la piste sonore d'un film ou d'un enregistrement sur magnétoscope et de la remplacer par son propre commentaire "en direct".

Les organismes d'information

Les organismes énumérés sont:

(i) ceux qui sont en mesure et prêts à répondre, à partir des données dont ils disposent, à des demandes de renseignements sur des documents audiovisuels utilisables à des fins pédagogiques déterminées dans une ou plusieurs matières d'enseignement;

(ii) ceux qui n'ont pas nécessairement un accès direct à une information d'une telle ampleur, mais qui sont en mesure et prêts à diriger les demandeurs vers des organismes de la première catégorie.

Chacun de ces organismes peut donc être considéré comme fournissant un service d'information authentique à un secteur du système éducatifs du pays où s'exerce son activité.

Comment utiliser le répertoire

Pour chaque pays, les renseignements communiqués sont reproduits dans un format normalisé. Les matières d'enseignement couvertes sont indiquées par des numéros codiques correspondant aux grandes divisions de la Classification décimale universelle (voir plus loin).

Pour formuler une demande de renseignements

Lorsqu'il est précisé que l'organisme compétent publie un catalogue, il sera sans doute bon de commencer par s'en procurer un exemplaire.

A défaut, une demande expresse pourra être adressée à cet organisme, soit directement soit - de préférence - par le canal d'un organisme du pays demandeur. Il conviendra de respecter autant que possible la terminologie employée dans le répertoire, notamment pour les supports, les matières et les catégories de publics, afin de réduire au minimum les problèmes linguistiques et culturels. C'est pour répondre à ce souci que les désignations des supports et des différents publics ont été prises dans toute la mesure du possible dans le EUDISED 1982 Thesaurus multilingue (Strasbourg: Conseil de l'Europe, 1982 ISBN 92-871-0032-2). Il pourra être utile de s'y reporter pour formuler une demande lorsque des difficultés de communication sont à craindre.

Remerciements

La présente édition s'inspire largement du travail entrepris par L.A. Gilbert lors de la préparation de l'édition de 1980.

Le collationnement et la mise en pages des données ont été assurés par Mme Susan Vaillant.
